

 ZAAP AUGUST NEWSLETTER

MEMBERSHIP MEETING THURSDAY AUGUST 27

Old Business - The Month-long fundraiser was successful in many different ways - money, community outreach, publicity and creating teamwork within the membership.

MANY THANKS TO YOU ALL AND YOUR HARD WORK.

SPECIAL THANKS TO SUSAN STUBBINS AND DEBBIE BECKERT WITH ALL THEIR ENERGY AND CREATIVE IDEAS!!!

Thanks to all who helped paint the wood lids to the Longaberger baskets. Larry, director of the Animal Shelter was overwhelmed with the quality of the work and also sends his thanks for working so quickly with such short notice.

There is a list of things needed in the gallery, please check it out.....

New Business - Due to a very busy schedule, Susan Nash has stepped down from her post on the ZAAP board. We hope she can rejoin us at a better time.

Speaking of which, the elections are coming up (not just the Nation's, but ours!) and all positions are available. We need a director, a co-director, secretary and (2) people to handle the treasurers position.

We also would like to have designated members to handle: advertising (marketing, media), food for special events, the organizing of the windows, the newsletter and typing of the cards that hang with the exhibit. Kay Israel has very kindly offered to be in charge of the cleaning of the gallery and John Bogard has offered to be our webmaster.

Please consider yourself, or someone you may know, to help in running and learning about this gallery.

Diane Carter would like to apologize to the membership for not having the ID cards next to the work hanging in the gallery during August. Hopefully this will not happen again though we do need more than one member who is able to create these cards and hang them.

Unfortunately, Toni Leland was unable to attend the OPPART workshop in Columbus representing ZAAP, but Charlie Kearns did attend and brought back the paperwork for us to digest and learn. SPEAKING of CHARLIE, The Y-Knot art installation has been moved to Labor Day and, in that light, Charlie has asked many local workers from businesses to wear clothing from work as they tie on the red, white and blue ribbons to the Y-Bridge connecting labor and artWORK. Anyone who would like to participate is asked to come to the Y-bridge on the 1st of September at 9:30AM (or earlier if desired) to help with this event. There will also be kayakers in the river as the Dillon Dam group has offered to let enough water out for our event and the public is invited to write on the paper ribbons and allow their wishes to go out onto the wind. Though Charlie is not an official member of ZAAP, he has included us in a lot of publicity such as WHIZ News and in the Times REcorder. We are a part of this installation and it would be nice to have representation there on Monday.

After this art installation, there will be a coinciding art event on Thursday the 4th of September to discuss Fear No ART and Labor starting a 7pm at the Zanesville Art Center.

All of this is to encourage the city to think about Art and do we consider it labor and how art is in every step of life.

Kathy Jenkins is going to be opening the gallery on more days of the week, which will be so helpful to us.

Please don't forget to sign-up for sitting or to leave $15 instead if you have a piece hanging in the gallery for the month of September.

The featured artist will be Sara Winn, mother of Kathy Jenkins and Linda Plant. She has been a member for quite a few years and has not been able to attend recently.
